Don't let winter stop your game

Here's sage advice from our head pro, Brian Ahlberg:

We are slowly winding down for the outdoor season. However, it pays to maintain some play over the winter months.

While some members continue to play tennis on a regular basis over the winter, others may choose to be more active in winter sports.

However, even while you may be putting more time into skiing or snowboarding or other winter activities, it's a good idea to still get in a few hits or attend the odd clinic over the winter, if possible.

This will keep you sharper for the start of the season next year!
